General Liability

Negligence is the failure of a person or business to use reasonable care. Examples include a building owner’s failure to maintain their premises in a safe condition, the failure to maintain an elevator, or the failure of a medical provider to provide proper care. The law firm of Hach & Rose has obtained over $100 million dollars for their clients injured as a result of unsafe practices.

FELA Claims

Tremendous railroad expansion coupled with intensified risks for railroad workers culminated in Congress passing the Federal Employers Liability Act (FELA). Unlike workers compensation, FELA allows railroad employees and their families to sue employers for negligence causing work injuries and death. Because railroads are an interstate transportation industry and FELA is a federal law, courts hear cases at both the federal and state levels. We represent railroad workers employed by the Long Island Railroad (LIRR), Amtrak, Metro North, Chessie Seaboard Expanded (CSX), New Jersey Transit, Consolidated Rail Corporation (Conrail), and other railways. Our FELA attorneys are also designated counsel for multiple railroad locals.

➤ We recognize that each client has one chance to be compensated when they are injured. Whether the case is worth $10,000 or $10,000,000, every client’s case is treated with the same care and attention to detail.

Asbestos-Related Injuries

Asbestos victims and their families have the right to bring lawsuits against those responsible for asbestos exposure. Manufacturers knew for decades that Asbestos causes severe breathing impairment and even death, yet they failed to let anyone know. People who worked in power plants, commercial and residential buildings, construction and members of the military were exposed. If you or a loved one has been diagnosed with Mesothelioma, lung cancer, or any other asbestos-related condition, we can assist in ensuring that all potential claims are pursued.

Construction/Work-Related Accidents

The New York State Labor Law specifically allows workers to recover financial compensation against third parties for injuries occurring while performing: Construction, Renovations, Repairs, Painting, Demolition and Cleaning Duties. When an injury occurs on or around a work area, you could be entitled to significant compensation over and above the limited recoveries received from Workers' Compensation through a Third-Party lawsuit. These additional damages include lost wages, lost pension and annuity benefits, and loss of health insurance. They also include damages for pain and suffering and loss of enjoyment of life. We will assist you in all aspects of the claim, from the third-party lawsuit to Workers' Compensation requirements and if necessary, Social Security Disability.
